The grand stand, a building that will impress the visitor with the feeling that large crowds usually attend races in Gregon, faces east and is some 300 feet leng. The occupant can feast his or her eyes on the rich prairies of Marion crunty and in the distance be refreshed by the sight of the snow capped peaks of Mt. Hood and Mt. Jefferron. This will be especially beneficial to the young man or maiden who has ventured his or her week's wages on a sure tip and when the horses come flashing by the wire anxiously looks for name of the desireability of the soil. Buy Good Goods.

Already a cry arises from many quar-ters that some of the new dress materials will slip in the seams, which tendency is hated by every woman making or wearing a gown. Hop sackings have been spoken of, also serges and sleazy

In many cases the complaints are just, but only where the shopper buys inferior goods. If merchants would keep and women buy goods of merit only, they would never complain of eams slipping. An open aleazy weave of woolen or silk goods will, from its very nature, slip or pull in the seams if it is of a poor, cheap quality. Buy reliable goods of medium quality, and no matter how sleazy the weave they will prove sufficiently firm to hold the stitching of the seams. It is not necessary to decry cer tain weaves for this tendency, as the these days successful materials are often brought out in cheaper and cheaper qualities, until they are at last driven from the market.—Dry Goods Econo-

Painted White Pine Floors.

Paint often peels from white pine floors on account of the battering which the soft wood gets from boot heels, etc. One such has been treated in a way that so far, promises to be a cure. Remove all the loose paint and clean the floor, being careful to rinse off all the soap. When very dry, apply linseed oil, smoking hot—hot enough to turn a white feather a little brown. It is then thin and penetrates the wood. This will spoil a brush of bristles, but it is easily done with an imitation brush of cotton cloth rolled on a flat stick and tacked. Let the oil dry and harden three or four days, the longer the better.

Then paint the bare portions with paint made largely of red lead, one or two coats. When well dried, paint the whole floor for uniform color. Do not let the dealer make you believe his ready mixed is "the thing." You will get only ocher, and that is earth and "dirt cheap." The metal pigments are far better. The points to insist on are: Hot oil and thorough drying to harden the wood and the red lead paint.—Baltimore American.
